Description

Studia Universitatis Babeş-Bolyai Geographia [Studia UBB Geographia] continues the journal entitled “Papers of the Cluj Institute of Geography” („Lucrările Institutului de Geografie din Cluj”), issued between 1922 and 1947. Very large and highly valued scientific studies were published in this journal by a number of Romanian and foreign geographers, including the famous French geographers Emm. de Martonne and Robert Ficheux.

As a publication of the Faculty of Geography of Cluj-Napoca, the journal valorize in the first place the results of the scientific activity of the faculty teaching staff (many research contracts, applied in regional development), as well as papers of other Romanian and foreign geographers.

Studia UBB Geographia, which reached its 57th year of existence (since 1957), is a Open Access Journal and it is published twice a year, in April and September, each issue having about 250 pages. As a consequence of the continuous improvement of the journal quality and because of the numerous international exchanges and its inclusion in international databases, the journal was accredited by the National University Research Council, and ranked within the B+ category.
